The entrance to Boduan Sanctuary Wood is on the north side of the B4354. There is off-road parking.

Coming from Caernarfon:

Come out of Caernarfon on the A487 towards Porthmadog and Pwllheli. After the village of Llanwnda, you'll come to a roundabout, take the 2nd exit. Shortly afterwards you'll come to another roundabout; again, take the second exit, signposted A499 to Pwllheli. Follow the A499 along the coast through Clynnog-fawr and inland through Llanaelhaearn to Y Ffôr.

At Y Ffôr, the road narrows, with houses and parked cars both sides of the street. At the crossroads, take the right turn onto the B4354, westwards, in the direction of Nefyn.

The wood is 4.5 miles from Y Ffôr, on the B4354. After a sharp right hand bend where the road climbs steeply out of a valley, and a left hand bend at the top, the road runs fairly straight. Look out for a small hill on the left and a village boundary sign saying Boduan. You will then be approaching the wood and should see it on the right hand side of the road.

Coming from Porthmadog:

On Porthmadog High Street, look for a roundabout by a large double-fronted shop, Kerfoots. At this roundabout, take the A497 westwards in the direction of Cricieth and Pwllheli. Follow this road through Cricieth. About a mile after Cricieth, you'll pass the small village of Llanystumdwy. Look out for a garage on your right; shortly after this, there's a right turn signposted B4354 to Y Ffôr. Take this road. At Y Ffôr you'll come to a crossroads. Carry on straight across, now in the direction of Nefyn.

Coming from Pwllheli:

Take the A497 towards Abersoch (Ala Road). On the outskirts of Pwllheli you will come to a roundabout where you turn right on the A499 towards Nefyn. You will pass through Efailnewydd. About three miles further on, take a sharp right turn along the B4354 towards Y Ffôr; continue for about 1.3 miles, past a turning to the left signposted Mynydd Nefyn. Boduan Sanctuary is the first wood on the left after this turning.
